Blended Insecticides Insure Complete Kill

For an even kill throughout the field, super blended pesticides are the best means available

The old method of mixing too often resulted in improper distribution of the pesticides throughout the carrying agent.

This uneven distribution results in more than is needed falling on parts of the field while too little or none fall on the other part, giving an incomplete kill. When this happens, a second spraying or dusting is often necessary.

This obvious waste and inefficiency is eliminated when blended pesticides are used. You not only get better crop protection, but you save money by making additional sprayings un-

INDEPENDENCE AND SELF - INTEREST

When a company reports how much profit it made—supported by the opinion of a Certified Public Accountant—how can you be sure his judgment in 'influenced by the management's optimize or conservation? Can a man he independent of the person who pays him? Will self-interest conflict with independence?

As independent auditor, the Certified Public Accountant finds that self-pays his fee, only if the auditor can be fully useful to the client who pays his fee, only if the audit increases to be fully useful to the client who ments in the eyes of bankers, investors, and others interested.

In this case, self-interest dictates "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may". The CPA's career is endangered if there is any loss of confidence in his work.

The ethical codes of the State and Mational professional Societies of Certified Public Accountants are based on this conception.

There are more people than perhaps you realize who still believe God is some sort of a corporeal, human person living somewhere high above our earth.
